In his I-Day speech, Prime Minister Narendra Modi became the second BJP politician to speak of late on a topic most Indian leaders avoid: overpopulation. In a tweet some time ago, Begusarai MP Giriraj Singh brought up the same point, and some 40 year ago, it was Sanjay Gandhi, who in an act of genuine evil, did what he did. Unfortunately, our only ways of associating with the population issue is through gentlemen of this calibre and their ideological polarities.
